LC: To describe a fantasy creature

There the dragon lay, inactive and slumbering. His immense body coated in reddish-gold scales, rose heavily up and down with his deep smoky breaths. The golden glow within his monstrous body reflected off his vast adored treasure of glittering gems, gold and jewels. Inside his mouth, rows of razor-sharp teeth were lit in the dim light of the room. Across the room, his enormous wings covered the ground like clouds protecting the sun. Beneath him, his deadly, pointed tail, coiled like a spring, jerked randomly in his dreams of riches.

All around the murky humid cave, an ancient stale stench hovered in the air. Silently suspended from the walls were lethal, forgotten weapons - swords - spears - axes - daggers - bows and arrows - all left over from their dwarf owners.

Commented [1]: Do you think this makes the dragon sound threatening?
